

Nationally Televised Debates

(Sunday, 12 April 2020)

Today is Easter Sunday; perhaps, it seems like an odd day to discuss important current events and the state of our society. Then again, every day is a good day for such important discussions. That is especially true during a time of “self-isolation” or “quarantine” because of the Coronavirus Pandemic. An interesting discussion about 5G took place, and it caused this author to think about that issue and its role in “the bigger picture” of society – for better or worse. It felt important to write a short essay while the ideas were still fresh in the mind. Maybe it is appropriate to write an essay based upon the need for the “Resurrection of Civilization” on the same day we are celebrating the Resurrection of Jesus.

We live in a very unique time in the history of mankind for so many reasons. There are many good (and not-so-good) things that are happening around the world. Two aspects of our society that can be good or bad are technological / medical advancements and easy access to constant news updates, including on television, radio, newspapers, websites, and social media. These have an extremely powerful effect on people’s lives for better or worse. Of course, most of us hope it is all for the better while others knowingly use such things for the worse. There are good people in the world and evil people in the world; that has been the case throughout recorded history. The opportunity for technological & medical progress, and the availability of information, are not “good” or “evil” in themselves; their influence upon society is dependent upon WHO controls them and/or HOW they are used.

Society has become extremely fast-paced in all of its aspects, and everything seems to be louder, busier, more stimulated, and more chaotic than ever before. When things are moving so quickly, and often so erratically, it does not always allow for people to slow down, gather accurate information, think clearly, and then make wiser decisions about the future of society. Instead, we seemed to be forced to make hasty and rash decisions based on incomplete and/or inaccurate information – or to blindly accept what we are told without ever knowing what is truly taking place and how it may affect us and society as a whole.

Of all the important aspects of society that could be discussed, it felt important to speak about this issue. We are witnessing the development of new technology and medical practices at a pace that most people cannot understand and can barely keep up with. The media, which is meant to give people Truth by providing factual information and exposing the lies, deceit, and manipulation of corrupt politicians and/or corporations, is almost completely failing in its Sacred Duty. So, we are living in a time when our governments, education system, healthcare, and every other aspect of society are now dominated (i.e., controlled) by Big Tech Giants that are being funded & supported by International Banks, Government Funds, Advertisers, and Consumers of their products and/or services. The mainstream media has become nothing but a “mouthpiece” for the powerful people and corporations that control them. That is not a mere conspiracy theory; that is Truth.

Part of the problem in society today is that The People have been lied to, deceived, and manipulated so much over recent decades by their own government and the media. Accusing people of being “tin-foil hat-wearing conspiracy theorists” is a dishonest and intellectually lazy way of slandering people and assassinating their characters in order to silence them or at least discredit them for simply asking fair and reasonable questions. In a time of lies and deceit, we need the Truth more than ever! And if anyone is being silenced or attacked for merely asking questions and wanting to know (and/or to speak) the Truth, then there are big problems taking place that must be resolved quickly to preserve the God-given Freedom that we should have.

Technological & Medical activities are an important topic to discuss in greater detail. For our purposes here, however, we will simply mention that they have the incredible ability to change people’s lives around the world for the better – and they can do so quickly. Modern medicine seems to be helping people live longer than in the past; whether they are living better and more fulfilling lives is another question for another essay. Technology has definitely made our lives more “convenient” by us not having to spend so much time engaged in the mundane tasks that used to consume most of people’s days in the past. We are so blessed to have running water, electricity, cars, trains, planes, washers, dryers, dishwashers, refrigerators, ovens – not to mention having the Internet, computers, televisions, smartphones, and so on. In First World Countries, we live infinitely better than kings and queens in the old days!

The media on its various platforms has also created an incredible opportunity to provide information around the globe in mere seconds. In a world that was too often limited in the flow of knowledge, we now have the ability to share our thoughts with anyone quickly, easily, and freely. It is true that social media can be the “sewer of society”, but it also has the ability to allow people to share very important information that can help to make the world a better place. Such a situation was an amazing development intended to help enlighten mankind by spreading Truth everywhere. John 8:32 says, “And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.” We cannot fully be free if we do not have Truth, and the media was meant to fight on the behalf of The People in order to help make certain that we maintained our freedom by giving us truthful information.

One issue that occurs is the implementation of technological or medical advancements without the understanding (or consent) of The People. If the media platforms do not give people enough truthful information, then they are forced into a situation of blindly accepting changes to society that they did not have a say in making. They choose representatives in Local, State, and Federal Governments to speak and work on their behalf, but we also live in a time where corruption is rampant within the governments of the nations. If they cannot be trusted to legally and morally make decisions on behalf of The People, and the media also cannot be trusted to give Truth to The People, then it puts the general public in a very difficult position. We either become “slaves” in a system of control that is governed by individuals who are unaccountable and who may not have pure intentions that benefit the Greater Good...OR...we unite together and rise up in a revolution through peaceful resistance (that could be squashed) or in violent upheaval that could lead to chaos, instability, destruction, and death.

There is another option, for there are NEVER just two choices in life, and that is for “Nationally Televised Debates” on issues that affect the whole of society. If governments truly cared about The People and wanted them to understand what was taking place, they would definitely support such debates. The media spends most of its time peddling propaganda and trying to create fear through non-stop focus on crises, controversies, dramas, and real (or fake) scandals in order to manipulate people through the narratives that they push. There is definitely time and space for them to allow for televised public debates on very important issues.

The general idea would be for certain issues to be debated on national television so that the entire nation (and world) can hear all sides of an argument of great importance. For so many important issues taking place now, we only hear one side of them. The other side (or sides) are ignored, ridiculed, or prevented from having a platform at all in order to share their thoughts with the public. If powerful forces want certain things to take place, they simply use the media to push their narrative while also attacking and/or silencing anyone who tries to argue against their narrative. That is NOT the way to Truth! That is NOT how we establish an Enlightened Society! And we will NEVER be free while that is taking place!

When such a debate occurs, we could have the “Top 10” scientists/researchers/etc. from different sides of the issues present their thoughts and evidence. Each side would be able to ask questions and challenge the information, and the entire process would allow the public to know that there are more sides to the issues and to hear as much information as possible. Afterward, a referendum could take place so that The People could vote on what they wanted to happen.

This vote would preferably take place at the Local Level so that more power would be in the hands of The People, but it could also take place at the State Level. Lastly, it would take place at the National Level depending on the issues that were being debated. The idea of forcing EVERYONE to accept the decisions made by the Federal Government does not make sense in most cases – other than for National Security, as an example. More power should be put into the hands of the State and Local Governments so that people will have more freedom and have more of a say in the decisions that directly impact their lives. A system of “Majority Rule” does not mean that the majority always votes for the best ideas, which is why it makes sense to give more power to the State and Local Governments. If the majority happens to be ignorant and/or extremist, their “Mob Rule” can be detrimental to an entire nation if their successful vote took place at the Federal Level.

Let us look at a few examples in order to make this idea clearer. Right now, we are being forced to believe that “man-made Climate Change” is real; yet, there has NEVER been a national or international debate on the issue. However, governments around the world at the Federal, State, and Local Levels are dictating what should take place without the consent of The People. Their decisions have serious effects on society, especially people’s livelihoods and the economy. The lack of debate proves that there are powerful forces that DO NOT want the general public to have more information about the issue – they want us to have less. Why is that? The coordinated effort to ignore, discredit, and/or silence critics also proves there is an attempt to force upon The People something that they may not want in the first place. Why are people NOT allowed to ask fair and reasonable questions? Why are they called “deniers” for simply wanting more information to then make wiser decisions for humanity and the planet?

The science is definitely NOT settled! There are thousands of scientists, researchers, historians, meteorologists, geologists, climatologists, professors, and politicians around the world who DO NOT believe the man-made climate change theory. So, why are they ignored, slandered, and/or silenced? Well, we need a nationally televised debate so that all sides can present their information and the public can have a better understanding of what is taking place before voting on a plan of action. That is how a “Free & Enlightened Society” should operate! However, that is NOT happening – and we are NOT free because of it. We are NOT living in a society based upon Truth; we are living in a society based on “controlling information” – which means we are constantly being given beliefs/opinions, half-truths, disinformation, and propaganda. That is slavery for the mind, and it must NOT be allowed to continue!

There are other issues of great importance that also deserve public debate and a vote by The People. For example, we are told by “authorities” and “experts” that vaccinations are not causing children to have autism. However, there are doctors and researchers all over the world who are saying just the opposite – yet, they are ignored, attacked, and/or silenced. Why is that? Why are people NOT allowed to point out that there is an explosion of autism in children, while also pointing out that children receive many more vaccinations now than they did in the past? Why are people NOT allowed to simply ask if there is a connection between the two? Why are they labeled “anti-vaxxers” for wanting to know WHAT is causing the increase in autism?

When did asking questions become so “dangerous”? The fact that people cannot ask such reasonable questions proves there is something suspicious going on. Who refuses to have public debates and seeks to destroy people who raise concerns about the issue unless they are hiding something?! Why is it that some politicians (and governments) are telling parents that they cannot send their children to school or childcare centers unless they are vaccinated – even though parents have a right to be concerned, have a right to determine what is best for the health of their children, and have NEVER received information or support to calm their fears?

Another important example to discuss is about “5G”. Why are people NOT allowed to hear from scientists and researchers all over the world who are also concerned about its possible effects on people’s bodies and minds – not to mention the concerns about it invading people’s privacy? Are those not reasonable and valid concerns to have? Why is 5G being rolled out even without people having all of the necessary facts or having their concerns addressed with more information and not less? People are already concerned about the health risks from their phones and WiFi, so why are they “paranoid” for being concerned about what 5G will do to them?

A public debate would be a great way to resolve issues and do so openly in order to help people to be more at ease with the important decisions being made. With the progress of technology, it is NOT “paranoia” or a “conspiracy theory” to question if such things are safe and what impact they might have on us. Anyone who does not want such a debate would have to be ignorant or they are deceitful and are hiding something they do not want us to know about. Anyone who does not like people asking questions is NOT someone who should be in charge of making important decisions that influence the lives of others.

Another example is the issue of putting fluoride in our water supply. Why are people NOT allowed to point out the individuals and information that says putting ANY chemicals in the water is unhealthy? Why are people discouraged from listening to those who claim that it is bad to put fluoride in our water and provide a history of how it all started? Why does it make people “conspiracy theorists” by simply asking questions and wanting more information about important issues taking place that affect them, their children, and their communities? Why are so many people made to feel like they have done the wrong thing for being concerned about crucial issues relating to health and well-being?

Again, when people are ignored, attacked, and/or silenced, then we definitely need to be suspicious of what is happening “behind the scenes” that we DO NOT know about. Are the actions of such people based on pure intentions or on greed and “backroom deals”? Are their actions based on ignorance and believing things to be okay even if they are not? Or, are their actions nefarious and intentionally designed to negatively affect the health and well-being of the general public? If such people were open and honest in the first place, then others would NOT become “conspiracy theorists”. Because too few in politics, the media, and corporations are truthful, people are forced to wonder what is happening and are concerned that their general welfare is at risk.

Another example is the issue of “chemtrails”. Why is it a “conspiracy theory” to merely look up at the sky and point out that there are obviously trails of “something” in the air? Why is it “crazy” to point out that normal “contrails” (condensation trails) are shorter and DO NOT linger in the air and spread across the sky for many hours...but rather disappear very quickly? Why are people ignored, attacked, and/or silenced for simply asking reasonable questions about the elements within the trails and if those chemicals are harmful to the air, water, soil, humans, and animals? It seems fair, logical, and reasonable to question WHAT is being sprayed from the airplanes, WHO is giving the orders for it to be done, WHY is it happening, and HOW is it affecting the health and well-being of people, animals, the environment, and the planet.

So, why are people NOT allowed to hear from those who claim to be “whistleblowers” and say that they are “chemical trails” that are being sprayed for reasons the general public is NOT meant to know about? Why are people NOT allowed to hear all sides of the issue so that they know what is taking place and can vote on whether they want ANYTHING sprayed in the air? Why is there fear (and even anger) when the expression “chemtrails” is used, as if certain people do not want the public to even know that such things exist and claim the trails that can be seen in the sky are just regular “contrails”? These people are basically saying, “Go back to sleep; there is nothing to see here.” It is difficult for the general public to blindly accept that when they know that governments have been working with certain corporations for decades on various programs, such as “weather modification”, “weather warfare”, and “geo-engineering”.

There are many other examples that could be given, but the few issues mentioned above should be enough to give the general idea of the need (and the benefits) of having nationally televised debates. For too long, people have lived in “darkness” due to a lack of knowledge. Throughout history, the primary way for Elitists (in Church and State) to dominate The People was to withhold information, spread disinformation, and prevent most of them from receiving an education at all. This was the strategy to acquire money, power, and control. It happened in the past, but we should not make the mistake of thinking that it does not happen in the present.

In today’s world, the manner to control people is similar – withhold information, spread disinformation, but allow children to attend schools...for Indoctrination and NOT to receive a True Education. The Internet has been a huge blessing, because it allows people to bypass the corrupt mainstream media and freely share information that could not otherwise reach people. However, we can see that the mainstream media is working very hard with Big Tech Giants to censor, silence, and de-platform anyone who is exposing corruption, countering the narratives being fed to the general public, and sharing information that THEY do not want people to hear.

This proves the need for the nationally televised debates. They would allow all sides of important issues to be discussed WITHOUT censorship or bias. But of course, that is exactly why such debates are NOT happening right now. There are indeed powerful forces that want the “masses” to remain ignorant about what is actually taking place, and they depend on corrupt politicians and media organizations as well as control of the Internet to do it. We need MORE information...not LESS!

We desperately need strong, moral, and courageous leaders at the Local, State, and Federal Levels who understand the battle that is taking place and have effective strategies to overcome the opposition to building a better world. It is an epic battle between “The Elitists” and “The People” – between “Slavery” and “Freedom”! We need such leaders to organise and hold these debates. We also need strong and courageous people from even one News Channel that is willing to televise such debates. They can also be “live-streamed” online and even spread across social media platforms in order to reach people around the globe.

This is a time for Fearlessness and Selfless Service, as we lovingly work to make the world better. It is time to shine a Light on all aspects of society in order to see what certain people DO NOT want us to see. It is time for us to be more informed than ever before so that we can make wise decisions and can vote for Representatives in Government to also make wise decisions on our behalf. It is a time for MORE Freedom, but that requires MORE Discipline, Morality, Understanding, and Responsibility! People are better, and society is better, when there is a “free flow” of ideas and information. We cannot possibly make our lives, families, communities, states, nations, or the world better unless we can think for ourselves, ask our own questions, do our own research, draw our own conclusions, remain open-minded, and debate others to see whose arguments are more Truthful and can stand the test of Man...and of Time.
